Opening Reception: Thursday, January 24 – 5pm to 9pm

The Walsh Gallery presents “Untitled,” a group exhibition curated by Jeanne Brasile and Jennifer Graham-Macht. The exhibition consists of artwork that ponders notions of “nothingness” through subject matter, materials or both. Simultaneously, “Untitled” also poses questions regarding the roles of the artist, curator, viewer, gallery and the art object in creating meaning. As the title limits context, the format of the show also limits the role of the curators. Participating artists were given access to the process of selecting additional artwork and artists, thus restricting the role of the curators’ tastes and preferences -- validating their artistic voice during the act of creation as well as the process of influence in releasing that information to the viewer.

Participating artists include Arianna Carossa, Joseph Farbrook, Darren Jones, Maciej Markowicz, Chris Radtke, Joseph G. Sabatino, Travis LeRoy Southworth, Dmitry (Dima) Strakovsky and Eric Valosin. Much of the artwork is site-specific, necessitating a more collaborative framework for curatorial and artistic practice. The site-specificity of many of the artworks also heightens awareness of the gallery environs. Programming includes a performance and question and answer session with artist Dmitry (Dima) Strakovsky on Wednesday, January 23rd from 2 to 3:30pm and a Curators’ Talk and Gallery Stroll on Thursday, January 31st at 7pm. All events are free and open to the public.

For 150 years, Seton Hall University has been a catalyst for leadership, developing the whole student, mind, heart and spirit. Seton Hall combines the resources of a large university with the personal attention of a small liberal arts college. Its attractive suburban campus is only 14 miles by train, bus or car to New York City, with the wealth of employment, internship, cultural and entertainment opportunities the city offers. Seton Hall is a Catholic university that embraces students of all races and religions, challenging each other to better the world with integrity, compassion and a commitment to serving others. For more information, see www.shu.edu. Seton Hall University is located at 400 S. Orange Avenue, South Orange, New Jersey, 07079. The Walsh Gallery is open 10:30am to 4:30pm Monday through Friday.
